Ferrara's Heavy Duty Extruded Aluminum Bodies. Built Like No Other!

Character is doing the right thing when no one is watching. Our extruded bodies are built with character. You'll likely never see the 2" x 4" extruded aluminum triple gussets at the crossmembers, the plug welds that attach body corners to the hose bed sides or the reinforcing plates at every corner inside the pump compartment. If you never see them, why do we go to such great lengths to build our bodies so strong? Because it's what you've come to expect from Ferrara. So when you respond to emergencies with an apparatus custom built by Ferrara, you'll feel secure knowing your fire body is built to last a lifetime.

Carry what YOU need . . . Where YOU need it!

Long gone are the days when fire departments responded only to the occasional house fire. Today, it's ALS, extrication, dive-rescue, Haz-Mat, tactical rescue, collapse, USAR, and more. You have to be prepared not only for fire suppression, but a host of other emergencies. For this, you need a truck that can carry the load.

When you need a new rescue pumper, Ferrara's team of experienced engineers will custom design a truck to meet your demands and your unique environment. We will custom build you the strongest vehicle in the industry and add to that specialized storage compartments and brackets to keep your gear safe during transit, easy to access and ready for use at the scene.

Full height/full depth compartments up to 28" deep

Space for 8 spare SCBA in wheel wells and winch connections

Ladders, backboards, pike poles & piercing nozzle stored through the booster tank

Optional coffin compartments available over the high sides.

Extrication equipment stored pre-connected at the front bumper. Add an HID brow light and you're ready to begin extrication as soon as you arrive on scene.

Air bag rack & saw brackets

Who said you can't be all things to all people?
Today's fire service demands just that.
